Seventeen-year-old Trais Johnson (a sexually dangerous person) is dead. He was beaten to death in the middle of the afternoon at a bus stop on Chicago's west side. The news of Trais's death and the awful crime that led to it made national headlines. Reading the news two hundred miles south of where Trais had lain dead on a street corner is Christian Mental Health Counselor Oakland McCall. Oakland takes one look at the young man's face, and immediately Trais's past becomes his future. While pondering the details of the case, Oakland begins making startling discoveries and connections that involve his own life. Fueled by the revelation of suppressed childhood memories, Oakland embarks on a psychological journey and a supernatural quest to discover the history of Trais's transgressions and the darkness of his own past. The narrative of Troubled ascends into its spiritual crescendo when Oakland and a small group of believers confront the demonic forces that plagued Trais and continue to plague the lives of many others in the community.
